Status	Resolved / Fixed
Affected	Minecraft 1.12, Minecraft 1.12.1, Minecraft 1.12.2 Pre-Release 1, Minecraft 1.12.2 Pre-Release 2, Minecraft 1.12.2, Minecraft 17w43b (+54 more)

STEPS TO REPRODUCE

1. Launch Minecraft.
2. Create or enter a Creative world with default settings.
3. Open Options -> Music & Sounds.
4. Set the Friendly Creatures sound slider to OFF.
5. Set every other sound slider to 100%.
6. Exit the Music & Sounds menu.
7. Summon some magma cubes or slimes and listen as they jump around.
8. Observe that their sounds can still be heard with Friendly Creatures OFF, indicating that the sounds are controlled by Friendly Creatures instead of Hostile Creatures.

OBSERVED BEHAVIOUR

The jumping sounds produced by slimes and magma cubes are assigned to the Friendly Creatures sound category instead of Hostile Creatures.

As a result:

- Setting Friendly Creatures to OFF silences the jumping sounds of slimes and magma cubes.
- Adjusting the Hostile Creatures slider does not control these sounds.
- This occurs for both slimes and magma cubes, despite both being hostile entities.

EXPECTED BEHAVIOUR

The sounds produced by magma cubes and slimes should be controlled by the "Hostile Creatures" sound slider, consistent with sounds from other hostile entities. Muting "Hostile Creatures" should silence their jumping and other entity sounds, while changing the "Friendly Creatures" slider should not affect them. Their sounds should remain audible when "Hostile Creatures" is enabled, regardless of the Friendly Creatures setting.

ORIGINAL DESCRIPTION

The Bug:

The sounds of magma cubes and slimes aren't controlled by the "Hostile Creatures" sound slider.

Any action that is created through a hostile entity doing something that doesn't result in blocks being changed, is normally controlled by the "Hostile Creatures" sound slider. For example, the sounds of skeletons burning, zombies groaning, and drowned stepping, are all controlled by the "Hostile Creatures" sound slider as they should be, because the entities are performing these actions.

The sounds of magma cubes and slimes aren't controlled by the "Hostile Creatures" sound slider when they should be, and are instead controlled by the "Friendly Creatures" sound slider.

Steps to Reproduce:

- Navigate to the "Music & Sounds" settings menu.
- Turn the "Friendly Creatures" sound slider to "OFF".
- Turn every other sound slider to "100%".
- Exit this menu, summon some magma cubes or slimes, and listen closely as they jump around.
- Take note as to whether or not the sounds of magma cubes and slimes can be heard, (are controlled by the "Friendly Creatures" sound slider instead of the "Hostile Creatures" sound slider).

Observed Behavior:

The sounds of magma cubes and slimes aren't controlled by the "Hostile Creatures" sound slider and are instead controlled by the "Friendly Creatures" sound slider.

Expected Behavior:

The sounds of magma cubes and slimes would be controlled by the "Hostile Creatures" sound slider.
